Election/Restrictions

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-3 and 6, drawn to a method for determining the propensity of a test compound to cause depletion of reticulocytes in a subject, classified in class 435, subclass 4, for example.
- II. Claim 4, drawn to a drug signature database, classified in class 702, subclass 019, for example.
- III. Claim 5, drawn to a method for deriving a reticulocyte depletion signature comprising administering a plurality of compounds to test subjects that cause reticulocyte depletion, and identifying a plurality of genes that are affected for which the difference in expression level is statistically significant, classified in class 435, subclass 4, for example.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions I- III are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different modes of operation, different functions, or different effects (MPEP § 806.04, MPEP § 808.01). In the instant case, the methods of Group I and III are patentably distinct from each other because they are comprised of distinctly different steps and have distinctly different outcomes. The outcome of the method of Group I is the probability that a test compound will cause depletion of a test compound by determining the difference between expression of indicator genes and control genes. The outcome of the method of Group

Art Unit: 1636

II, which distinguishes it from Group I, is a derived reticulocyte depletion signature comprised of a plurality of genes with altered expression levels in response to a plurality of test compounds. The invention of Group II is patently distinct from the methods of Group I and II because it is a database of information and the inventions of Groups I and II are biochemical methods.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
